

Job Postings for English

August 2009

Assistant Professor of English, College of Liberal Arts

English: British literature. The Department of English at the University of Southern Indiana invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in English, specializing in the long 18th century or Romantic/Victorian period. A Ph.D. in English must be in hand by August, 2010. The successful candidate will be committed to undergraduate teaching, active research, and departmental service. Teaching duties (4/4) include advanced-level literature, introductory literature, and composition. Send letter of application, curriculum vitae with full contact information for three professional references, one-page teaching philosophy, and one-page research agenda overview in Word, rich text, or PDF to: Dr. Stephen Spencer, Chair, English Literature Search Committee, University of Southern Indiana, at English1@mail.usi.edu. Electronic applications only. All applicants are also required to submit a signed USI Faculty/Admin application (available at <http://www.usi.edu/HR/Employ/docs/02-5050%20Faculty%20App.pdf>). Review of applications will begin Oct. 1, 2009 and continue until position is filled. Consult our website at <http://www.usi.edu/libarts/english/> for more information about the English Department at USI. Posted:

Assistant Professor of English, College of Liberal Arts (two positions)

The English Department of the University of Southern Indiana invites applications for two tenure-track assistant professors of English in Rhetoric and Composition. Ph.D. in Rhetoric and Composition required. Ideal candidates will have experience and training in one or more of the following areas: secondary education, technical writing, web authoring, writing program administration. The successful candidate will teach courses in the freshman composition sequence and in the Rhetoric and Writing emphasis in the English major (4/4 load) and will help to design a planned M.A. in Rhetoric and Professional Writing. The successful candidate must have a passion for teaching at all levels, an active research agenda, and a desire to participate in service at the program, department, college, and university levels. Send letter of application, curriculum vitae with full contact information for three professional references, one-page teaching philosophy, and one-page research agenda overview in Word, rich text, or PDF to: Dr. Patrick Shaw, Rhetoric and Composition Search Committee Chair, at English2@mail.usi.edu. Electronic applications only. All applicants are also required to submit a signed USI Faculty/Admin application (available at <http://www.usi.edu/HR/Employ/docs/02-5050%20Faculty%20App.pdf>). Review of applications will begin Oct. 1, 2009 and continue until position is filled. Consult our website at <http://www.usi.edu/libarts/english/> for more information about the English Department at USI. Posted:

Instructor or Assistant Professor of English, College of Liberal Arts

English: composition and humanities. The Department of English at the University of Southern Indiana invites applications for a three-year renewable contract position to teach two composition courses and two humanities courses each semester. M.A. required for Instructor; Ph.D. required by start date for Assistant Professor. Composition teaching duties will include two courses per semester in the composition sequence and two courses per semester in a two-semester survey of the humanities in the Western tradition. Humanities is a program of the USI

Center for Interdisciplinary Studies, with faculty drawn from several departments in the College of Liberal Arts. The successful candidate will be committed to undergraduate teaching, professional development, and departmental and university service. To apply send a letter of application that addresses qualifications for teaching in both fields, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, and names and contact information for three professional references to Dr. Allen Helmstetter, Chair, English Comp/Hum Search Committee, University of Southern Indiana, 8600 University Blvd., Evansville, IN 47712. All applicants are also required to submit a signed USI Faculty/Admin application (available at http://www.usi.edu/HR/Employ/docs/02-5050%20Faculty% 20App.pdf). Review of applications will begin October 1, 2009, and will continue until position is filled. For more information about the Department of English, consult our website at <http://www.usi.edu/libarts/english/>. For more information about humanities at USI, see <http://www.usi.edu/libarts/cids/>.