Founded in 1965, the University of Southern Indiana is a comprehensive public university offering a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University offers degrees in more than 80 major fields within its colleges of Business, Liberal Arts, Nursing and Health Professions, and Science, Engineering, and Education. USI is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (NCA) as well as numerous other professional associations. The Romain College of Business has the prestigious accreditation from the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) and the Engineering program is ABET-accredited.

USI is regarded as responsive, student-centered, and innovative. The University strives to maintain a low student/faculty ratio to enhance learning; the average class size is 25 students. Its appeal to students is found in its size, the accessibility of professors, its beautiful environment and modern housing, its proximity to an urban center, and the friendliness of students, employees, and the community. Rated one of the safest cities in the U.S., Evansville is designated an “All America City” by the National Civic League.

LOCATION

USI’s 1,400-acre wooded campus is situated in beautiful rolling hills on the edge of Evansville, Indiana’s third-largest city.

A cultural and economic hub for the region, Evansville is located in the Southwestern tip of Indiana, on the banks of the Ohio River.

Evansville is a moderate size of approximately 130,000 residents which provides the activity and accessibility of a large metropolitan city while maintaining the special charm of a small river town.

The climate of the region is moderate, offering four distinct seasons throughout the year.

Numerous recreational activities are available in the city, including live concerts throughout the year, theatrical productions, and sports.
