

Professionalism in MBA courses

---

University of Southern Indiana

Ethical Representation

---

Becoming an MBA candidate involves more than merely completing an academic workload. Students will represent the Romain College of Business during future endeavors in a positive light.

Students must:

Display academic integrity pertaining to completing given assignments in a timely manner, and without the use of cheating.

Deal honestly with others.

Maintain confidentiality regarding professional matters.

Recognize professional biases and bases attitude and action upon a sound rationale.

Represent personal qualifications honestly

Attributes of professionalism

---

Specialized knowledge- Students are expected to display expert knowledge within their industry and a dedication toward content mastery.

Honesty and integrity- Students will practice honest procedures and never compromise proper business ethics

Competency- Students will have a focus toward finding solutions. They will be held accountable for their own thoughts, words, and actions toward a common goal.

Respect- Students will uphold respect for fellow classmates and faculty staff. This entails communicating in a clear and open manner, while demonstrating proper manners.

Self-regulation- Students will be expected to work diligently on course material both inside and outside of an academic environment. MBA candidates must be self-motivated in order to meet all proper timelines and due dates for course work